The Unit Identification Code Search System is a government application that allows approved users access to a centralized database Since the information is located within governmental servers, access to the Unit Identification Code Search System, or UICSS, is restricted to registered users. In order to obtain access to the UICSS, individuals must submit a request to the Department of Defense Human Resources Activity's Defense Manpower Data Center, or DMDC. The request should be submitted via e-mail. The purpose of the registration is to verify the identity and intended usage purpose of the user applying for access to the UICSS. The request will need to include a reason or justification for requesting access. Additionally, the DMDC may reject any access request for failing to provide any information requested to verify your identity. In order to submit a request for access to the UICSS, please visit the Defense Manpower Data Center UICSS website. The site lists how you can find further information on how to submit your request for access into the system. A Navy UIC locator is a special six-character alphanumeric code assigned to units, bases and activities of the U.S. Navy. UIC is an acronym for Unit Identification Code. Though previously accessible to the public, UIC codes are typically harder to find since the acceleration of the fight against terrorism. Many UIC codes are considered classified information. A UIC locator serves the purpose of identification as well as facilitating financial transactions and allocating manpower. The first character of the code identifies the particular department within the Department of Defense, such as "N" for the U.S. Navy, "E" for the U.S. Coast Guard and "F" for the U.S. Air Force. The next three characters in the UIC indicate the Parent Unit Designator, which varies from branch to branch and refers to the type of unit involved. The final three characters Descriptive Designators that reveal the unique characteristics of the that unit. In addition to military branches, other U.S. agencies with UIC codes include the Postal Service, the Treasury Department and the Department of Agriculture. State governments are also identified with UIC codes beginning with the letter "Y." The Unit Identification Code Search System is an online resource for finding unclassified UIC locators, but it is accessed by permission only, with justification for access provided and approved.
